

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A combustion engine having at least one pair of longitudinal opposed cylinder with electricity generating stator means fixed relative thereto and having pistons arranged in the cylinders for cycles of reciprocating compression and power strokes, the pistons being linked together with a linear actuator for movement therewith.